AIG Private Client Group supports Concours of Elegance 2016

17 August, 2016 – American International Group, Inc. (NYSE: AIG), one of the world’s leading insurers of classic car collections, will be supporting the 2016 Concours of Elegance at Windsor Castle.

The event, that takes place from 2 September to 4 September, will bring together 60 of the rarest cars from around the world – many of which have never been seen before in the UK.

Many of the 60 invited exhibitors at Windsor Castle are insured by AIG, as well as two of the past three Concours of Elegance UK Best in Show winners. Anthony Baldwin, Chief Executive Officer of AIG Europe Limited and AIG UK, will be one of the judges at this year’s event.

Kate Wells, Head of AIG’s UK Private Client Group, said: “The Concours showcases some of the finest and most prestigious cars in the world as well as the passion of those who collect them. We are proud to partner with this event and proud to offer classic car collectors a service that safeguards their prized possessions.”

As an investment, classic cars have soared in value, beating other luxury investments as well as more standard assets. According to the Knight Frank Luxury Investment index, classic cars saw returns over five and 10 years to March 31, 2016 rise 161 percent and 467 percent respectively.

AIG’s classic car coverage offers clients an agreed valuation that doesn’t depreciate, the ability to choose a preferred repairer as well as consultation and risk assessment services regarding storage and transportation to help protect these increasingly valuable assets.

AIG insures:

- Three of the past five Concours of Elegance UK Best in Show winners
- Fourteen of the past seventeen Pebble Beach Concours d’Elegance Best in Show winners
- Eight of the past twelve Amelia Island Concours d’Elegance Best in Show winners
- Eighteen of the existing thirty nine Ferrari 250 GTOs, currently amongst the most valuable cars in the world
